

Doug Walrath currently has a son Dylan Walrath who attends MEHS.

Doug resides in Nome.

Doug currently works for the Northwestern Alaska Career and Technical Center as the Director. He believes in the values of residential programming and the impact from independent life skills that are gained in such environments.

Doug is currently the President of the Academic Policy Committee for the Anvil City Science Academy. He was appointed to the Workforce Development seat on the Bering Strait Development Council. He also served on UAF Northwest Campus Advisory Council and the parent advisory board for the Kawerak Head Start program.

Doug thinks that what makes him uniquely qualified for the Parent Representative position is his experience and understanding of the ins and outs of residential programming. He feels his insight would be valuable in program funding, grant reporting, supervising staff, counseling students and maintaining the dormitory.
