Department of Education & Early Development
Office of Education Advocacy

COMPLAINT FORM

Purpose of the Office of Education Advocacy

The mission of the Alaska Department of Education & Early Development's Office of Education Advocacy (OEA) is to empower students, parents, educators, and community members by providing centralized access to information, advocacy, and support in navigating the state's education system. The OEA helps ensure that every stakeholder can effectively address educational concerns, understand applicable regulations, and pursue fair resolution of issues.

Before filing a complaint with the OEA, please make every effort to resolve the issue through local channels, beginning with the school, principal, superintendent, or local school board. Documentation of these efforts will assist in OEA's review.

A complaint will be rejected if the alleged violation occurred more than 6 months before the date the complaint is filed or if, based on the alleged violation, a specific process for complaint is set out elsewhere in statute or regulation. If a complaint is rejected, the OEA will notify the complainant not more than 10 business days after receipt of the complaint and may refer the complainant to another department, agency, or organization.
