MISSION

The Professional Teaching Practices Commission's intent is to serve as a preventative and positive force in helping to enhance the professional performance of all educators so that the public's right to the best education possible for all of Alaska's students is adequately protected.

WHAT'S NEW IN THE CODE?

The Code of Ethics has recently undergone significant revisions in 2017 and 2018. Major highlights include: student teachers are now required to abide by the Code of Ethics; the Code of Ethics explicitly prohibits sexual contact between educators and recently graduated students for up to one year after graduation from high school; the definition of sexual conduct has been expanded; and a new section is added to Crimes of Moral Turpitude. All the changes are highlighted in the complete Code of Ethics on the following pages.

The Commission debated, amended and revised the wording of the proposed changes before they went out for public comment. The Commission considered all the public comments then debated, amended and revised the proposed language changes. After voting in general session, approved proposals were sent to the Department of Law for review. Minor wording changes were made before being signed into law by the Lieutenant Governor.

The revisions to the Code of Ethics were made by the Commission to further enhance the professional and ethical standards for educators and to ensure the public's trust in Alaska's education professionals.
