TDA Frequently Asked Questions for Educators

What is a Text-Dependent Analysis (TDA) item?

The English language arts (ELA) section of PEAKS presents students with a Text-Dependent Analysis (TDA) question. A TDA is a text-based analysis, based on a single passage or a multiple passage set that each student has read during the assessment. The passage(s) will consist of either literary or informational text.

In order to successfully answer a TDA, students must analyze and use information from the passage(s) to plan a comprehensive, holistic response. Students will then write their response including supporting evidence from the passage(s). Students will have up to 5,000 characters to formulate their response. Students' responses are scored using a rubric which takes into account both the composition and the conventions of the student’s writing.

Why are we assessing in this way?

According to the Alaska English Language Arts and Mathematics Standards, “The ability to write logical arguments based on substantive claims, sound reasoning, and relevant evidence is cornerstone of the writing standards,” (page 2). Questions or prompts provided in the Text-Dependent Analysis portion of this assessment, require students to demonstrate their abilities and knowledge in the Alaska Standards. By responding to questions in the Text-Dependent Analysis section, students show that they are able to integrate literacy skills and that reading and writing are not separate skills but work together.

How do I prepare my students for a TDA item?

Throughout the year educators are teaching reading and writing skills as outlined in the standards, students should be prepared. This guide and the accompanying PowerPoint presentation provide information regarding some strategies that are aligned to the type of work students are expected to know and be able to do. Strategies include close reading, using text-dependent questions that require students to gather evidence from the text, and practice with the writing process.

The Three Instructional Shifts for ELA provide guidance as to what types of learning experiences should be provided to students.

1. Building knowledge through content-rich nonfiction.
2. Reading, writing, and speaking grounded in evidence from the text—both literary and informational.
3. Regular practice with complex text and its academic vocabulary.

Is standard W-9 the only writing standard on PEAKS?

Writing Standard W-9 is the writing standard associated with TDA. It is the standard that connects reading for evidence and analyzing the text. As students learn the skills associated with writing outlined in the Alaska ELA standards, the foundation for standard W-9 is set. Writing standards W-1 through W-8 cover text types, writing for different purposes, conventions, the production of writing (publishing), and how to conduct research. These standards are assessed as multiple choice, multiple select, short answer, drop down list, or drag and drop items in the writing part of the ELA assessment.

Anchor Standards for Literary and Informational Text

The K-12 grade-specific standards define what students should understand and be able to do by the end of each grade. They correspond to the anchor standards listed by number. The grade-specific standards are necessary complements that can be found in the Alaska English Language Arts and Mathematics Standards document.

The Anchor Standards associated with the Text-Dependent Analysis (TDA) items on PEAKS are listed below. The complete list of Anchor Standards can be found in the Alaska English Language Arts and Mathematics Standards located on DEED’s Standards webpage.

Achievement Level Descriptors (ALDs)

Achievement Level Descriptors (ALDs) provide the skills present at each of the proficiency levels for each of the standards listed above by grade level. The ALDs can be found on the PEAKS webpage.
TDA Exemplars

Text-Dependent Analysis (TDA) items will appear on PEAKS for the first time in the spring of 2018. In order to provide examples of student work, links to exemplars from Pennsylvania have been included in this Educator Resource.

Each exemplar includes:

- Reading Passage
- TDA Writing Prompt
- Pennsylvania’s Scoring Guide
- Two examples of student work at each level (1, 2, 3, and 4)
  - Computer-based writing sample
  - Paper-based writing sample

Pennsylvania’s writing rubric is included in each exemplar. Please note that the embedded writing rubric was developed by and for Pennsylvania and may be slightly different from Alaska’s. The Text-Dependent Scoring Guide for Alaska can be found in this resource on page 14. The score ranges for the Scoring Guide range from 0-4.

Pennsylvania is another state that employs Data Recognition Corporation (DRC) as their statewide assessment vendor. Pennsylvania’s TDA and standards are similar to Alaska’s. Pennsylvania did not administer TDAs on their high school assessment.

Instructional Strategy: Text-Dependent Questions

The increased rigor in the Alaska English Language Arts and Mathematics Standards requires students to be able to answer questions using evidence from the text. Students are required to determine the meaning of complex texts and make logical inferences. Text-dependent questions do not ask students about their prior experience or feelings on a subject, but rather rely on explicit or implied information from the text. Students are expected to speak and write using evidence presented in the passage(s), and to present analyses based on credible information that is based in the text or is research-based.

One instructional strategy is to create text-dependent questions and assignments. This practice allows students to practice gathering evidence from the text and writing a response using this evidence to support their answer.

Progression of Text-dependent Questions

Text-dependent questions can be developed for a variety of topics as demonstrated in the diagram above. These types of questions can focus on the whole text (the top of the pyramid) or just part of a text (bottom of the pyramid).

Please note that simply asking text-dependent questions will not guarantee that a student will automatically be able to understand complex text. They will need to be taught how to read deeply for evidence in the text and write a response that utilizes the evidence (Fisher & Frey, 2012).

Instructional Strategy - Close Reading

“Close reading is thoughtful, critical analysis of a text that focuses on significant details or patterns in order to develop a deep, precise understanding of the text’s form, craft, meanings, etc.” (Beth Burke, NBCT)

Close reading includes (taken from: A Close Look at Close Reading: Scaffolding Students with Complex Texts by Beth Burke):

- Using short passages and excerpts
  - Appropriate text complexity
- Diving right into the text with limited pre-reading activities
- Focusing on the text itself
- Rereading deliberately
- Reading with a pencil
- Noticing things that are confusing
- Discussing the text with others
  - Think-Pair Share or Turn and Talk frequently
  - Small groups and whole class
- Responding to text-dependent questions

PEAKS Writer’s Checklist

PLAN before you write

• Read the question carefully.
• Think about what the question is asking about the passage.
• Read the passage again, as needed.
• Organize your ideas on scratch paper.

FOCUS while you write

• Think about the information from the passage as you write.
• Support the ideas in your response by using evidence from the passage.
• Use clear language, a variety of sentences, and transitions in your response.
• Include in your response an introduction, body, and conclusion.

PROOFREAD after you write

☐ I wrote my final response in the correct place.
☐ I wrote my ideas in my own words, except when quoting from the passage.
☐ I answered the question that was asked.
☐ I used evidence from the passage to support my ideas in my response.
☐ I used correct capitalization, spelling, sentence structure, punctuation, and word choice in my response.

- Effectively addresses all parts of the task to demonstrate an in-depth understanding of the text(s)
- Strong organizational structure and focus on the task with logically grouped and related ideas, including an effective introduction, development, and conclusion
- Thorough analysis based on explicit and implicit meanings from the text(s) to support claims, opinions, and ideas
- Substantial, accurate, and direct reference to the text(s) using an effective combination of details, examples, quotes, and/or facts
- Substantial reference to the main ideas and relevant key details of the text(s)
- Skillful use of transitions to link ideas within categories of textual and supporting information
- Effective use of precise language and domain-specific vocabulary drawn from the text(s)
- Few errors, if any, are present in sentence formation, grammar, usage, spelling, capitalization, and punctuation; errors present do not interfere with meaning

- Adequately addresses all parts of the task to demonstrate a sufficient understanding of the text(s)
- Appropriate organizational structure and focus on the task with logically grouped and related ideas, including a clear introduction, development, and conclusion
- Clear analysis based on explicit and implicit meanings from the text(s) to support claims, opinions, and ideas
- Sufficient, accurate, and direct reference to the text(s) using an appropriate combination details, examples, quotes, and/or facts
- Sufficient reference to the main ideas and relevant key details of the text(s)
- Appropriate use of transitions to link ideas within categories of textual and supporting information
- Appropriate use of precise language and domain-specific vocabulary drawn from the text(s)
- Some errors may be present in sentence formation, grammar, usage, spelling, capitalization, and punctuation; errors present do not interfere with meaning

- Inconsistently addresses some parts of the task to demonstrate a partial understanding of the text(s)
- Weak organizational structure and focus on the task with ineffectively grouped ideas, including a weak introduction, development, and/or conclusion
- Inconsistent analysis based on explicit and/or implicit meanings from the text(s) that ineffectively supports claims, opinions, and ideas
- Limited and/or vague reference to the text(s) using some details, examples, quotes, and/or facts
- Limited reference to the main ideas and relevant details of the text(s)
- Limited use of transitions to link ideas within categories of textual and supporting information
- Inconsistent use of precise language and domain-specific vocabulary drawn from the text(s)
- Errors may be present in sentence formation, grammar, usage, spelling, capitalization, and punctuation; errors present do not interfere with meaning

- Minimally addresses part(s) of the task to demonstrate an inadequate understanding of the text(s)
- Minimal evidence of an organizational structure and focus on the task with arbitrarily grouped ideas that may or may not include an introduction, development, and/or conclusion
- Minimal analysis based on the text(s) that may or may not support claims, opinions, and ideas
- Insufficient reference to the text(s) using few details, examples, quotes, and/or facts
- Minimal reference to the main ideas and relevant details of the text(s)
- Few, if any, transitions to link ideas
- Little or no use of precise language or domain-specific vocabulary drawn from the text(s)
- Many errors may be present in sentence formation, grammar, usage, spelling, capitalization, and punctuation; errors present often interfere with meaning

- Completely blank response
- Response indicates a refusal to attempt the task
- Response is illegible.
- Response is too insufficient to be assessed
- Written entirely in a language other than English
- No reference to the item or passage provided, but does not seem to constitute an intentional refusal
- Consists solely, or almost solely, of text copied directly from the text(s) with little or no original student writing
